Senate Studies LBJ's Health Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A last-ditch fight to get a Social Security health financed plan on the statute books this year was being studied among senators Thursday.

But the most dedicated backers of the program, for which President Johnson has repeatedly pleaded, realize the odds against them are heavy, since the House Ways and Means Committee shelved the plan.

If the Senate adds a health care program to the Social Security bill the House is expected to pass, the legislation goes back to the House and presumably to a conference headed by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Bare Breasted Barmaid On Bail

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Bare-breasted barmaid Joy Sheridan, 25, a waitress at the Rogue Room, was arrested Thursday for outraging public decency by wearing a topless bathing suit.

She was released on $276 bail pending arraignment July 1.

Dist. Atty. Louis Bergna said he also will file a complaint against Rogue Room owner Allan P. Burdick on the same grounds, and will recommend Burdick's liquor license be lifted.

Several women complained that Miss Sheridan was serving drinks while dressed in a topless bikini.

Miss Sheridan described her costume as "comfortable and cool and real cute."

Senate Unit Passes Pay Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee unanimously approved Thursday night a pay raise for Congress members and other federal employes at a cost of about $550 million a year.

Chairman Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., put the cost of the bill at approximately $15 million more than the House-passed version.

Salaries of Senate and House members would be raised by $7,500 a year to $30,000, effective next January, as provided in the bill passed by the House 243-157 on June 11.

Little Progress For Seneca Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate and House conferees reported "little progress" Thursday toward compromising conflicting bills that would compensate Seneca Indians for construction of the Allegheny River dam and reservoir.

The meeting, the fourth in an effort to adjust differences between the House and Senate bills was recessed to an indefinite date, subject to call by Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House conferees.

Blatt Picks Up 227 Votes

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Only 227 of 543 challenged primary absentee ballots were ruled valid Thursday by the Lackawanna County Election Board.

The decision came after hearings on the contested ballots that lasted over a month.

The challenges had been file originally by ...ngs for Miss Genevieve Blatt, secretary of internal affairs, who is ahead by 636 votes in her battle with Justice Michael A. Musmanno for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

Johnson Ends Cyprus Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson concluded four days of talks with the Greek and Turkish prime ministers Thursday without winning immediate agreement for direct talks between the two NATO allies on the explosive Cyprus issue.

AT&T Stock Split Aids Market Gain

NEW YORK (AP)—American Telephone's new stock, just split 2-for-1, ran away with trading honors Thursday in a stock market which squeaked through to an irregular gain. Trading was active.

Volume of 5.05 million shares was the highest since June 17 when 5.29 million shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been up as much as 1.59, closed with a gain of .47 at 827.48.

House Cuts Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's foreign aid program cleared the House Appropriations Committee Thursday with the smallest money cut since the Korean War.

The approval of $3.3 billion of the request $3.5 billion was a victory not only for Johnson, but for his fellow Texan, Rep. George H. Mahon, who recently became chairman of the powerful committee that originates all money bills in Congress.

In the first challenge to his new authority earlier this week, Mahon bested Rep. Otto E. Passman, D - La., in the latter's own subcommittee. Passman in the past has led successful drives to cut deeply into the money Congress provides.

Token Cut Asked

Mahon made his position stick when the full committee approved what Passman called a mere token cut—a little more than $200 million.

But Passman promised to lead a vigorous fight for a $519 -million cut when the bill reaches the House floor next Tuesday. He will be backed by many Republican members and some Southern Democrats.

The $200 - million cut which Mahon insisted upon amounts to 5.5 per cent of the money total. Last year Congress lopped off 33 per cent of the amount requested by the late President John F. Kennedy, providing $3 billion.

Only once before has the Appropriations Committee reduced the foreign aid bill by a lesser percentage. That was in 1950 during the Korean War when it cut only 2 per cent.

Johnson asked this year for $3.5 billion — a billion dollars less than Kennedy's request—and called it a barebones program that could not be cut without affecting U.S. security.

Bill Approved

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, which sets the ceiling for the money bill, approved virtually every cent of the $3.5-billion request in its authorization bill.

House Votes Mass Transit; Rooney For It

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed Thursday, 212 to 189, a bill for $375 million in federal aid to cities struggling with problems of decayed and dwindling transit systems.

Passage of the measure, similar to one already approved by the Senate, was a victory for President Johnson and for a coalition of Democrats and urban - area Republicans. Johnson had put mass transit legislation high on his priority list of bills to be passed this year.

The bill would authorize appropriations of $75 million for the first year and $150 million for each of the two succeeding years for research and actual purchase of buses and other equipment to build up transit systems. Local sources would have to provide at least one-third of the funds.

The bill's own sponsors proposed substantial amendments to make it more acceptable to wavering legislators outside the metropolitan areas. The most significant change cut down the total authorization from $500 million to $375 million.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen Pennsylvania Democrats and nine Republicans voted with the majority Thursday as the House approved the mass transit bill by a 212-189 roll call vote. Four Republican members voted against the bill.

Democrats for (13): Barrett, Byrne, Clark, Dent, Flood, Green, Holland, Moorhead, Morgan, Nix, Rhodes, Rooney, Toll.

Republicans for (9): Corbett, Curin, Dague, McDade, Milliken, Saylor, Schweiker, Weaver, Whalley.

Republicans against (4): Goodling, Johnson, Kunkel, Schneebeli.

State Finds No Brutality By Police In Chester

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Scranton Administration told a disbelieving and unsatisfied civil rights delegation Thursday there was no evidence of state police brutality during racial incidents at Chester in April.

Stanley Branche, head of the Chester Committee for Freedom Now, rejected the state police investigation of the charges, called for another rally in Chester Friday night, and renewed his threat to picket the presidential campaign appearances of Gov. Scranton.

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, State Police Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy and Deputy Atty. Gen. Edward Friedman discussed the state police investigation report for 2 hours and 15 minutes with Branche and five others interested in the civil rights movement.

Afterward, each side said the session was harmonious in discussing the meeting with newsmen.

No Brutality

Branche sat by quietly as Shafer, acting for Gov. Scranton, told newsmen that state police used "reasonable force" but no brutality in helping Chester city police control large crowds of Negroes and white sympathizers during incidents April 22 and April 24.

"On the basis of the report it was felt that there was no justification for further action with regard to the charges of brutality by state police, as distinguished from the use of reasonable force by the state police," Shafer said.

Shafer said that the report did not cover instances of alleged brutality by Chester city police. He also said an FBI report sustained the state police findings.

Branche insisted that state police detectives were not competent to investigate this type of charge against members of their own organization.

"It is not backed by anything," he said. "We definitely are unhappy and we still want an open hearing. We have something to back us up—the bodies of the people that were beaten."

Branche continued:

"The tension in Chester is still very great. We will not ignore this."

Mass Rally

He announced that the CCFN will stage a mass rally at 8 p.m. Friday in Chester.

Asked if he planned to go through with his threat, made last Thursday during picketing at the Capitol, to picket the campaign appearances of Scranton in his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Branche said:

"There is a strong possibility, even stronger than ever."

Automation Delays State License Re-Examinations

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania's physical re-examination program for licensed drivers will continue in suspension until the Motor Vehicles Bureau has been automated, it was reported Thursday.

Harry H. Brainerd, traffic safety commissioner, said the program probably would not be reinstated before late 1966. It was suspended in February 1963 soon after the Scranton administration took office.

Resumption of the system would be impractical said Brainerd, until electronic machines start processing operators' licenses and records.

"As much as we approve of the re-examination of all drivers we first have to put their records on the computers and that won't be finished until late 1966 or early 1967," Brainerd said, adding:

"Then we intend to require all operators applying for renewals to complete a medical report.'

He disclosed that a subcommittee of the Governor's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee is in the process of determining whether the present medical standards should be retained or altered and what should be the elapsed time between re-examinations.

The physical re - examination program instituted by former Gov. David L. Lawrence in November 1960 envisioned rechecking the state's 5.5 million drivers every 10 years.

In the 16 months the program was in effect, 806,918 drivers were selected by lot for the examinations. Of these 30,131 were rejected for various physical reasons and were denied driving privileges unless their conditions could be corrected.

Brainerd said originally the bureau was calling in 12,000 to 15,000 drivers a week, but that had dwindled to some 700 weekly as more than 45,000 reports backlogged by early 1963.

"We just don't have the staff to handle it manually," said Brainerd. "The best thing we can do is hold off until the records are set up for the computers."

However, he added, all applicants for learner's permits still are being required to undergo medical and eye examinations.

A person wishing to secure a license must have his private physician complete a medical report after taking an eye examination at a state police barracks before obtaining a learner's permit application.

Senate Vote Excise Tax Repeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to repeal the federal excise tax of 10 per cent on all cosmetics, handbags and luggage, and that on less expensive furs and jewelry.

The tax would still apply to that portion of the cost of furs and jewelry which exceeded $100.

This was a defeat for President Johnson and a victory for industry groups and women who have been lobbying for repeal on the ground that cosmetics and handbags are not luxuries but basic consumer items.

Johnson has argued that the federal Treasury cannot afford this year the loss of an estimated $455 million in revenue that that these excises bring in. Administration forces defeated a Republican repeal move in the House last week, and the House may refuse to go along with the Senate action.

That would throw the issue into a Senate-House conference to resolve differences.

6 Skytop Executives In Contempt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Six directors of a business supply firm with headquarters at Bryn Mawr and Skytop, Pa., were convicted of civil contempt Thursday in U.S. District Court.

The six men, heads of Business Supplies Corporation of America, a tabulating card and data-processing supplies firm, had been previously convicted of criminal contempt and fined a total of $13,000.

Found guilty were board chairman Clement V. Conole of Bryn Mawr; his son and president Richard C. Conole of Skytop; vice president Charles E. Anable, also of Skytop; vice president William J. Callahan of Mount Pocono; and executive vice presidents Bridwell W. Lincoln of Paradise Valley, and Alva M. Meyers of Ardmore.

The contempt findings by Chief Judge Thomas J. Clary were based on charges of a 50 per cent stockholder that they changed bylaws of the corporation to issue additional stock and deprive him of his directorship.

Clary gave the six directors 10 days to hold a directors meeting and rescind the actions taken Feb. 10 despite a restraining order. He said they could purge themselves of the civil contempt charge by filing within five days or the ordered directors meeting written certification that they have rescinded the Feb. 10 actions.

According to Judge Clary, the elder Conole drew up a contract in late 1963 or early 1964 paying himself $50,000 to $95,000 a year, plus expenses, for 10 years without requiring him to work regularly in the executive offices.

LBJ Sends 200 Sailors After Missing Workers

Barry Taunts Lodge

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater on Thursday urged Henry Cabot Lodge to delay political warfare for an hour to explain real warfare in South Viet Nam.

Goldwater, the front-runner for the Republican presidential nomination, said Lodge owes it to the country "to tell us what is wrong—or how it could have gone right."

Goldwater, back in his home state for the Saturday marriage of his younger daughter, spoke to a party rally in Tucson and to an American Legion convention in Nogales.

Lodge Resigned

Lodge resigned as ambassador to South Viet Nam earlier this week to help Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton's fight against Goldwater for the GOP nomination.

Noting that Lodge had said the situation in Viet Nam should not be a political issue, Goldwater said, "Surely he cannot believe that such questions can be evaded simply by pretending they do not exist. That is precisely what this administration has been doing, and I hope that no Republican will support such an evasion."

Then he added: "I hope that Ambassador Lodge will not be a lone Republican voice crying excuses or evasions in the wilderness of the administration's Vietnamese policy.

"He has in all these matters much to tell us I am sure. The responsibility to do so certainly must rank as high as any personal political ambitions.

"I urge Ambassador Lodge to consider, as his first order of business, an explanation to the people of America."

Goldwater also lashed out at the proposed U.S.-Soviet agreement for each to burn aircraft.

"It's not pleasant to find one's country in unilateral disarmament," he said, adding that the Soviet Union hides its weapons budget under the classification of research and development.

Judge Rebukes Atheists

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Criminal Court judge issued contempt citation Thursday against atheist Madalyn Murray and her son William J. Murray, Jr., 18.

Judge James K. Cullen handed down the citations shortly after a grand jury returned 13 charges against Mrs. Murray, the son, and her mother, Mrs. Bona Mays, 73.

The contempt action accused Mrs. Murray, 45, and William of disobeying a June 2 order prohibiting them from contacting Susan Abramovitz, 17. Susan and William were married June 6 and fled to Hawaii two days ago with Mrs. Murray and Mrs. Mays.

Prosecutors Huddle

While prosecutors huddled to decide whether to seek extradition of the four from Hawaii, Mrs. Murray's lawyer disclosed plans to proceed with her court suits involving church-state relations.

Mrs. Murray became prominent as the woman who brought a suit resulting in last year's Supreme Court decision ruling unconstitutional required prayer and Bible reading in public schools. She later was indicted by a grand jury on eight counts of assaulting police in a melee at her Baltimore home last Saturday.

Mrs. Mays was named on one assault count.

William was charged on three counts of assaut and one of disorderly conduct, the last as a result of his behavior at a preliminary hearing last Sunday, when he dropped to the courtroom floor and shouted to the judge, "I won't move, you Catholic!"

All the assaut charges involved police who had gone to the Murray home to arrest William's young bride on an earlier contempt citation. Her parents had filed a Criminal Court action last May charging Mrs. Murray and William with inducing the girl to move in with them and to abandon her Jewish religion.

The contempt citations accused Susan of ignoring Judge Cullen's order placing her in the temporary custody of an aunt and uncle, prohibiting her parents and the Murrays from contacting her, and directing her to remain in Maryland.

Search Teams Comb Heavy Forest Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — A detachment of 200 U.S sailors has been assigned to assist the FBI in the search for three young civil rights workers who disapieared in Mississippi.

This was disclosed by the White House late Thursday afternoon, ending a period of confusion about whether Marines were to be used in the search.

Meanwhile, President Johnson was reported keeping in close touch with the situation through a series of telephone calls to parents of two of the missing young men, to civil rights leaders and to various officials.

At an early afternoon briefing George Reedy, the White House press secretary, told newsmen 200 Marines would be used to assist in the search which centers near Philadelphia in east-central Mississippi. He added that eight Marine helicopters also would help in the search.

A short time later, the Pentagon said 200 sailors from the naval air station at Meridian, Miss., were being placed at the disposal of the FBI at Philadelphia but that they would be replaced later by Marines.

At another briefing five hours later, Reedy told reporters the information about use of Marines was "inadvertently inaccurate," that sailors would do the job and "there is no plan to send Marines."

In his reassessment, Reedy said also he wanted to correct any impression he may have given at the midday session that Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. of Mississippi was advised in advance of the plan to have armed forces personnel assist in the search.

Reedy added that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover later telephoned Gov. Johnson to explain the plans.

Reedy added that the sailors will not be armed.

The sailors spread out over an embraces the spot where the area six to 10 miles long that missing group's charred station wagon was found Tuesday. The search parties moved on foot.

Lt. Cmdr. James Wassell, assistant chief of air operations at the Meridian base, was in command of the Navy search teams.

Each 11-man team included nine sailors, an FBI agent and a state highway patrolman. The teams were spaced about three quarters of a mile apart, starting out along a rural gravel road.

Much of the area was swampy. The sun was shining brightly.

Workers Vanished

The three civil rights volunteers vanished Sunday night after paying a $20 fine here for speeding. They had driven here from Meridian to investigate the burning of a rural Negro church.

Their charred station wagon was found Tuesday in snake-infested Bogue Chitto swamp 13 miles to the northeast. It offered no clues to the strange disappearance.

Mississippi highway patrolmen turned to the numerous creeks, bayous and gravel pits that dot the area, after two days of checking outbuildings and questioning Neshoba County residents.

There was talk of dragging the Pearl River, which winds through the Choctaw Indian reservation just north of Philadelphia.

Negro Leader Calls For Law, Order

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Negro Baptist leader told a Baptist Congress Thursday it's time for civil rights to emphasize law and order rather than demonstrations.

Dr. J. H. Jackson, president of the national Baptist Convention, used recent opinion polls to illustrate his point in a talk in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena.

"Opinion among Negroes and whites has begun to turn against direct action as a means of solving problems. Hence, pickets, sit-ins, wade-ins, lie-ins, and all such demonstrations have passed their peaks as effective instruments for the promotion of civil rights," he said.

Jackson told the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress that such demonstrations have come to the point of diminishing returns.

"They now cost the country and Negro people more in money, morals, energy, attitudes, appreciation and goodwill than they gain in economic, mental, social and cultural progress," he said.

The more demonstrations we have, the uglier will become the image of the United States of America in the eyes of the world, he added.

Jackson said Negro preachers should "get back to your jobs. You cannot give full time to the picket line and also to the gospel line.'

Segregationists Rip Police Lines

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—More than 200 white segregationists broke through police lines Thursday night, attacking fleeing civil rights marchers during a wild, brutal foot race back to the Negro section of town.

The whites, riled by almost an hour of speech-making in Slave Market Square, attacked the marchers even before they reached the square.

For the first time, the well-disciplined Negro marchers broke ranks and this gave the whites the chance to single out individuals.

Small groups raced into the line of marchers, fists flying, and then retreated before police could grab them. Then they would hide in the shadows of the square and regroup for another attack.

Police were unable to cope with the widespread violence.

The hit-and-run attacks broke up the Negroes' usual solid wall.

The marchers, stumbling and looking over their shoulders, fled as best they could in a line back to the Negro section.

Tobacco Industry Hits FTC Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry accused the Federal Trade Commission of a power grab Thursday and promised a long court fight if that is the only way to block the new commission rule on cigarette labels and advertising.

This pronouncement presaged years of litigation before the FTC can—if ever—put into effect its rule that all cigarette labels and advertising warn the public that smoking may cause death from cancer and other diseases.

The commission, in announcing the rule Wednesday, set next year as the deadline for the warning notices. But FTC Chairman Paul Rand Dixon acknowledged that court suits could delay the effectiveness for years.

The threat of a lawsuit materialized Thursday as Bowman Gray, board chairman of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., testified before the House Commerce Committee.

Pocono Poverty Worse In Winter

President Johnson has declared unconditional war on poverty. How much of a battleground exists in Monroe County? How extensive; how intensive is poverty in the Poconos. This is the third of five articles on poverty in Monroe County.

By FRANK PERRETTA
Record News Editor

STROUDSBURG — John P. Doughterty, manager of the Pennsylvania Employment Service in Stroudsburg is a seasoned professional who can peek behind the statistics and understand the human element.

Dougherty has the wildest, most erratic unemployment charts and graphs in the commonwealth.

The colorful charts hit peaks and dip dangerously.

To Dougherty, the problem of poverty is more severe in the winter.

"Sure there's poverty in Monroe County. . .how much is difficult to determine. . .but whatever there is, you can bet it's worse in the winter," he said.

Here's why.

In the summer, the unemployment rate—based on a labor force of from 15,000 to 20,000 is 2.7 per cent.

The resort industry alone employs about 8,000 persons in the summer.

But this dips drastically in the winter — down to 2,000 people.

Dougherty says in the summer "Almost everyone physically able and willing to work can find some kind of job." He points out that many workers are "imported" by the summer resort industry.

He says that the unemployment rate is lowest in September when only about 150 persons file for benefits. At the high point — in January when the graph hits 9.2 per cent—1,100 people apply for benefits. This is right after Santa visited area homes.

Is there an average salary for people in Monroe County?

Both Dougherty and John Huber, labor market analyst at the local office, say an average salary is too nebulous to mean anything.

Huber, quoting from federal census figures, says one out of every five families in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg earns less than $3,000 a year.

But before you fall into the trap of drawing up a visual image of one out of five poverty-stricken families, peek behind the statistics as Dougherty does.

Many people work in the resort industry. Their salaries — on paper — are less than $3,000 a year. It looks bad. But many make a great deal more money in tips — this doesn't show up in their salaries or in the federal statistics. And all the tips are not declared on tax forms.

So actually, many in the $3,000 statistical bracket make much more.

Under the Unemployment Compensation bill okayed by the legislature this year, persons drawing benefits can get from $10 to $45 a week depending on how much money they earned at their last jobs. They can draw these benefits from 18 to 30 weeks. . .depending how much aid they qualify for.

But how about those who don't qualify for unemployment benefits?

They have to fare for themselves and some don't do so well.

We'll look at the public assistance program tomorrow.

DRB Approves 11 Sewage Plants

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Delaware River Basin Commission has approved 11 sewage treatment operations in Pennsylvania.

The plans approved Wednesday include projects in Bally, Bath, Boyertown, Lansford, Summit Hill, Exeter townships in Berks County, Palmerton, Robesonia, Shoemakers ville, Upper Merion townships in Montgomery County, and West Chester.

Also approved was the proposed construction of a 1,200-foot dike in Tinicum Township, Delaware County, by the Atlantic Pipeline Co., to prevent the accumulation of debris.

The commission announced its approval of a $12 million project for the Philadelphia waterfront. The proposed construction is a 2,000-foot long cargo wharf and terminal near the Walt Whitman Bridge. It has already been approved by the Army Engineers.

Scranton Advised Against Dewey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, has sent Gov. William W. Scranton a telegram advising the Pennsylvania governor not to enlist the political help of former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in efforts to gain the Republican presidential nomination.

"Any support you hope to gain in Ohio will undoubtedly be greatly threatened by this ill-advised move on your part," Harsha said in the telegram he made public Wednesday.

"It is with grave concern that I read your annoucement enlisting the aid of . . . Dewey . . . in your campaign efforts to hait Sen. (Barry) Goldwater's nomination," said Harsha, adding:

"Mr. Dewey, a renowned hatchet man for the eastern Republicans, was primarily responsible in preventing Ohio's great senator, Robert Taft, from obtaining the presidential nomination several years ago and we in Ohio are not unmindful of this questionable contribution.

Rep. Saylor Wants Transit Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pennsylvania congressman says that he will attempt to amend the mass transit bill under House debate today in order to protect some of his state's heavy industry.

Rep. John P. Saylor, R-Pa., said Wednesday that he would seek an amendment which would prohibit the purchase of foreign-built equipment with funds provided under the new bill.

Saylor contended that American companies have been underbid for generators and turbines to be used in federal projects by foreign firms whose wage scales are far below those in the U.S.

The administration's $500 million mass transit program would promote a demand for Pennsylvania products such as railroad cars, buses, electronic control systems, highway materials, steel rails, and other items under a three-year program of grants.

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — George Kilek, 69, of Carbondale, was killed Thursday when the car in which he was riding went out of control after a tire blew, crashed into a guard rail along Route 6 and overturned.

Police said all seven in the car were employed at a hotel in South Fallsburg, N.Y., where they were headed at the time of the accident.

Ephrata Teenagers Amazed At Success Of Work To Permit Bible Reading In State Public Schools

Editor's Note: A group of teen-agers in a small Lancaster County community decided to see if something couldn't be done about allowing Bible reading in public schools. They were over-whelmed by the results.

By RAY LEROUX
Lancaster New Era

EPHRATA, Pa. (AP) — Last August a group of teen-agers sat around a table filled with pizza and soft drinks and decided they should start some protest over a rule which forbade required Bible reading in public schools.

They decided to start a petition, hoping for a few hundred signatures.

They were over-whelmed by the result — more than 41,000 signatures within eight months. At that time they took the petition—calling for an amendment to the U.S. Constitution—to U.S. Sen Hugh Scott, R.-Pa., in Washington.

The teen-agers, all 17, are Paul Daniel Neidermyer; Thomas Wegner; Donna Gehman, and James Hunsicker. They said they found Sen. Scott "felt the same way about the issue that we did."

The group, now known as "Teens for Freedom," later went to the office of Congressman Paul Dague, who represents this county. He also endorsed the project and showed them a statement he plans to present in the House. As Neidermyer put it: "It's about all the people who have urged him to fight for Bible reading in public Schools, and about the people like us who have given him petitions."

State-Wide

Neidermyer, leader of the group, says "if we don't get an amendment soon, we have already made plans to really organize and make this a state-wide project. You have seven years to get an amendment and we will try seven times if we have to."

Neidermyer says his group apologizes for the first attempt. Not that they did anything wrong. It's just that they hadn't expected so much support and were unable to cope with the magnitude of the response.

Back in August, the teens dug into their pockets for nickels and dimes to buy paper and ink to mimeograph petition forms. Originally 200 petitions were printed. They were filled so quickly they had 2,000 printed.

In the first month, donations for $300 had come in. A lawyer volunteered legal services. A printer donated his time. And, most important, teenagers all over the commonwealth began to hear of the petition and became interested.

Twenty Ephrata area teen-agers pitched in to answer the mail. It still wasn't enough. The drive grew and grew to a point where the teen-agers were busy from the end of school at 3 p.m. to midnight. Finally, the group hired a secretary to work days.

Dan Neidermyer, Donna Gehman, James Hunsicker and Tom Wenger say two things made them continue the job, even after they knew how much time it would take:

"We got the impression that everybody wanted to do something about the ban (on prayer), but no one knew what."

Donations Come In

Two, "when we read the letters we get and see the donations coming in, it inspires us and makes us want to do more."

The state Federation of Women's Clubs endorsed the project. A Florida-based radio evangelist sent promise of aid. A VFW post sent $23. One man sent a check for $100. Different churches approved.

One Ephrata woman who thought the idea was a good one was Mrs. Robert Fasnacht, the legislative chairman of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Pennsylvania. She sympathized with the lack of time the four teenagers had and started an identical project through the auxiliary. It resulted in a petition with 30,000 signatures.

Crank Letters

The teenagers even got a few crank letters.

"Then we knew we were beginning to get around," said Tom.

Support for the project, they believe comes from five passages in the Bible:

"The wicked shall be turned into Hell, and all the nations that forget God." Psalms 9:17.

"Therefore behold, I, even I, will utterly forget you, and I will forsake you, and the city that I gave you and your fathers, and cast you out of my presence:

'And I will bring an everlasting reproach upon you, and a perpetual shame, which shall not be forgotten." Jeremiah 23:39-40.

"For Israel hath forgotten His Maker, and buildeth temples; and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but I will sned a fire upon his cities and it shall devour the palaces thereof." Hoesa 8:14

"Therefore thus saith the Lord God; because thou has forgotten me and cast me behind thy back, therefore bear thou also thy lewdness and thy whoredoms." Ezekiel 23:35.

"Because my people hath forgotten me, they have burned incense to vanity, and they have caused them to stumble in their ways from the ancient paths, in a way not cast up;

"To make their land desolate, and a perpetual hissing; every one that passeth thereby shall be astonished and wag his head.

"I will scatter them as with an east wind before the enemy; I will shew them the back, and not the face, in the day of their calamity." Jeremiah 18: 15, 16, 17.

Neidermyer said if these items were counted as two signatures, the total would be around 50,000.

On April 20, Sen. Scott rose to the floor of the Senate and proposed the amendment the Lancaster County teens are seeing.

I have been much concerned," he said, "about the recent Supreme Court ruling which held that such actions (voluntary meditation, Bible reading and prayer), when directed by a local school board, are unconstitutional.

"While this is the law of the land, many of my constituents share this concern, and I have received a great deal of mail in support of a constitutional amendment."

Proposed Amendment

Sen. Scott's proposed amendment says:

"Nothing contained in this constitution shall be construed to prohibit prayer, meditation, or reading from the Bible or other holy books by students in any school or educational instituion supported in whole or in part from any public funds, provided that such activity by the students is voluntary."

Dan Neidermeyer says the "Teens for Freedom" will not be content until the job is completed.

Scranton Starts Campaign For Nomination In Georgia

ATLANTA (AP) — A Georgia Republican leader said Thursday Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania will bring his campaign for the presidential nomination to this state Monday.

The Scranton visit was announced by Robert Snodgrass, state Republican national committeeman, almost simultaneously with an unexpected invitation to the governor from five Georgia delegates to the GOP National Convention.

Snodgrass said all the state's delegates are being asked to meet with the governor in a closed session here.

Jarvin Levison of Atlanta, 5th District chairman, said he and four other delegates sent a telegram inviting Scranton to Georgia.

The telegram said Georgia had been visited both by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and former Vice President Richard Nixon.

"The convention is drawing close and there is only one candidate that the delegates have not met and who has not yet been to Georgia and that is Gov. Scranton," the delegates said in a statement.

"We are impressed with the governor's efforts and like the way he campaigns and we have invited him to come to Georgia before the convention to meet the delegates and enjoy some Georgia hospitality."

Twenty-two of the delegates are pledged personally or have been instructed by district conventions to stick with Goldwater until released.

Commissioners Absolve Manor In Teeter Death

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday resolved that "after consideration of the hearings held at Pleasant Valley Manor on the death of Claude Teeter, no evidence of negligence was found."

Commissioner Stuart Pipher entered the motion and it was seconded and unanimously passed by Stanley Rader and John Price.

Teeter, a blind guest of the manor, set fire to his shirt on May 30 and died of his burns June 14 in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

His sister-in-law, Mrs. Sherman Teeter, charged negligence at the county home.

The commissioners called a meeting Monday at the manor to determine the validity of the charge. After hearing the results of the meeting, yesterday's motion absolving the manor staff of negligence was passed.

Airport Reports Program

In other business, the board heard a report from the Mt. Pocono Airport Authority of the Pocono Mountains Airport.

The report said the Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission and the state Dept. of Labor and Industry had approved the plans for the construction of hangars and office facilities at the airport.

The report said a target date of December 1 has been set as the completion date for the building project.

The authority must now wait until the participating municipalities pass a ¼-mill tax on present assessments to support the airport. Most of the municipalities are expected to pass the tax in early July.

The report also stated that from June 1 to 22, 6,058 gallons of gas had been sold at the airport, 79 quarts of oil were sold, and $55.33 had been received for tie-down fees.

263 Planes

It added that 263 planes had used the field; 308 pilots emplaned and 317 deplaned, 707 passengers emplaned and 706 deplaned.

The commissioners visited the county building at 509 Scott St., which was recently vacated by the office of the superintendent of schools.

The school office moved into new quarters in the courthouse basement this week. Health offices will soon move into the Scott St. buiding.

The commissioners approved a general paint-up and clean-up for the Scott St. building, as well as construction of a doorway through a wall.

New Business Machine

Bill Mullin of the Burroughs Corp. demonstrated the business machine which would be used for the new accounting system for the county commissioners, including county payroll, tax records, and retirement funds.

Commissioner Rader said that it has been 30 years since the last innovation in accounting techniques. Currently, most of the bookkeeping is done by hand.

At the end of July, a Burroughs pegboard system will be set up, and by the end of the year, business machines will program most of the county's accounting.

The demonstration is one of a series for the commissioners by the makers of leading business machines.

Herbert Crane, the county accountant, the commissioners, solicitor Russell Mervine, chief clerk William Reaser, and the office staff from the commissioners' office viewed the demonstration.

Mullin said that the use of such a machine would drastically reduce the amount of time spent on accounting, freeing the office staff for other duties.

Mt. Pocono Firehall Completed

MT. POCONO — Mt. Pocono volunteer firemen have worked hard and long to erect an estimated $25,000 firehall and carnival building in Mt. Pocono on Rt. 611.

A 15-year dream of the 80-man company is in the final stage of readiness for the firemen's carnival July 27 through Aug. 1.

David C. Bisbing, building committee chairman, said "We have done much of the work and saved a great deal of money for the company. The volunteers have removed many stones, trees and graded five of the eight acres of company ground.

"The new facilities will be much better and enable us to hold a bigger and better carnival with more rides," Bisbing added.

"In the future we hope to be able to rent the building and its facilities to various groups. This income will help to pay for the building and other expenses," he added.

"The 50 by 112 foot multi-purpose building contains a modernized 30 by 30 foot kitchen. There is also a new bathroom and other household facilities.

In addition, Bisbing said, "Four 14 foot overhead doors on both sides of the building are designed so that the building can be converted into a regular firehouse at a later date. Also a 100 by 150 foot carnival tent will be erected at the rear of the building for firehall and carnival use."

The building is located north of Mt. Pocono at Kinney Ave. opposite the A&P Store. There are two entrances to the grounds from Rt. 611. Parking facilities include a 120 by 300 foot area.

"Probably one of the main reasons we purchased the ground four years ago was because inadequate parking facilities hampered our activities at the other location," Bisbing explained.

Ernest Bisbing is chief of the Mt. Pocono Volunteer Fire Co. which was organized in 1925.

Officers of the company are George E. Bean, president; Thomas E. Brislin, vice president; Francis R. O'Boyle, treasurer and Richard L. Lee, secretary.

How does the young couple see the future?

Both have left high school and Frank is working.

McCafferty was picked up near the new A and P on McConnell St. about 5 p.m. Wednesday by Stroudsburg Police Officer Kenneth Williams, and jailed.

Slate Belt Group Plans Dump Study

BANGOR — Seven Slate Belt communities last night agreed to tackle a common garbage disposal problem after the state Department of Health told them to cooperate or have their open garbage dumps closed.

The communities agreed to name representatives to a fact-finding committee to study the possibility of creating a sanitary landfill garbage site to serve all communities.

The committee will meet with representatives of the Health Department July 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the Bangor town hall.

Slate Belt Communities

Attending the meeting last night in the town hall were the Bangor Borough Council, planning commission and Mayor Quintis LaBar; East Bangor Borough Council and Mayor Bernie Parsons; Roseto Borough Council and Mayor George Giaquinto.

Also the Pen Argyl Borough Council; Washington Township supervisors and planning commission; Plainfield Township supervisors, and Portland Borough Council.

Joseph Pomponi, supervising sanitarian for Lehigh and Northampton Counties, told the lawmakers, "I didn't come here tonight to scare you but we are going to push this problem."

Pomponi was referring to the paclice of dumping domestic and industrial garbage into slate quarries or in fields and leaving the refuse uncovered.

Dumps Threaten Water

He said that in addition to being unsightly and breeding rodents, the open dumps are a serious threat to pure underground water.

Dr. Raymond Shipp, department soil scientist, said a sanitary landfill would have to be located in an area where the soil contains good depth and materials to help in the decomposition of the garbage.

The sanitary landfill method of disposing of garbage involves covering garbage with dirt daily.

The dirt is then packed down to help decompose the garbage.

Dr. Shipp said approximately one acre of land is needed to dispose of garbage for 10,000 people each year. He said the need for land could be decreased if garbage in a landfill was piled in layers.

After an area is filled with covered and compacted garbage it can be reclaimed for other uses.

The seven communities comprise approximately 25,000 people.

Contamination

Dr. Grover Emerich, department ground water specialist, said dumping garbage in slate quarries or in areas near the top of ground water table causes contamination of underground water.

He said one open dump in Bangor is located near the borough's emergency water supply.

"This contamination may not show up for years but it will eventually contaminate your water," he said.

Dr. Emerich urged the communities to select a sloping site that is removed from the level of ground water.

Robert Stauffer, chairman of the Washington Township Planning Commission, said the incineration or burning method of disposing of garbage is too costly for the communities to consider. He said an incinerator would cost $500,000.

He urged the communities to work closely on this problem as a forerunner to solving other common problems.

Mayor Giaquinto said the state will eventually close our dumps. "It is our problem to come up with some plan the state will approve." He urged setting up a commitee.

Mayor LaBar concurred and added the committee should study the feasibility of both the landfill and incineration method of solving the problem.

"The committee's recommendations should be based on the merits of the problem not the fact that someone has some land that could be used to advantage. The very best people should be named to the committee," Mayor LaBar cautioned.

Cigarette Warning

The Federal Trade Commission issued a rule Wednesday requiring a clear warning that cigarette smoking may cause death from cancer and other diseases on cigarette labels by Jan. 1 and on advertising by July 1, 1965.

The rule announced by Paul Rand Dixon, chairman of the FTC, said "it is an unfair or deceptive act or practice to fail to disclose, clearly and prominently, in all advertising and on every pack, box, carton or other container in which cigarettes are sold to the consuming public, that cigarette smoking is dangeorus to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases."

The expected response from the cigarettee industry came yesterday from the president of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. He said the FTC does not have the authority to issue the rule, which he described as a power grab by the federal government—unlawful, unwise and unfair.

The tobacco industry spokesman argued that if any federal action is taken it should be voted by Congress, not decreed by an independent federal agency.

The FTC ruling was made under that agency's power to forbid unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the sale and advertising of consumer products. The agency has power to safeguard the public and to enforce truthful labeling.

The ruling came as a surprise during a squabble between the FTC and the FDA — another three-letter federal agency (the Food and Drug Administration)—over which one has the power to regulate cigarette labels.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, whose special scientific advisory committee found cigarette smoking a definite health hazard in a major report to the nation, told the House Commerce Committee a day before the FTC ruling that he believed new legislation is needed from Congress to give the FTC necessary power.

Some new legislation may be needed. Perhaps the FTC and the FDA already have the necessary power. The courts will have to decide that issue.

But the basic medical fact remains—smoking is clearly a health hazard.

Both the FTC and the FDA are supposed to protect the public from dangerous and unhealthy products on the open market. Their duty to require some warning on cigarette labels and advertising is absolutely clear.

If the courts strike down the FTC ruling, some Congressional action may be necessary.

The storm and the challenge of FTC power should be expected from the tobacco industry, which is out to protect its interests.

But the industry argument that nothing should be done before scientific evidence of the relationship between smoking and cancer is definitely explained is a delay tactic and not an answer.

The scientific relationship between smoking and cancer and other diseases does require further study. But the fact of the relationship has been established beyond doubt by many medical authorities.

It is unfair, unhealthy, and unwise for federal government agencies charged with protecting the public not to regulate cigarette labels and advertising.

The millions of addicts who continue to smoke should be clearly warned that they do so at their own risk.

Back To Abnormalcy!

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — "Back to Abnormalcy!" became the rallying cry of the Senate after 83 days of deadly rationality. As soon as it passed the rational civil rights bill it returned like a cuckoo-minded homing pigeon to the welter of irrationality that is its normally abnormal state.

Apparently the world's greatest deliberative body can maintain a posture of contained nobility just so long. Then it must return to chaos. That's where it is now, and where it threatens to remain into the unforeseeable future.

The Senate passed the landmark human rights document last Friday, then recessed. When it reconvened on Monday it went straight back to abnormalcy.

The pathway toward relapse was smoothed unwittingly by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, ordinarily a Gibraltar of orderly procedure. Mike waited only for the Senate Chaplain, Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, to conclude the opening prayer, then said:

"A member of the Senate approached me last week in connection with the program for this week, and made a request which I agreed to honor; but I must confess that I have forgotten who the member was, and what it was I agreed to. I trust that the member will remind me."

If the member remembered who he was, or what he'd asked his leader to do, he kept his own counsel. That was about all he had a chance to keep, because too many of his colleagues were clamoring not to keep their own counsel. As might have been anticipated from past performances, one of the most compelling was Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Morse went back to abnormalcy without deviating an inch. He resumed where he'd left off three months ago—denouncing both the Legislative and Executive branches of Government.

It was all just as it used to be. Listeners sank into a morass of sweet nostalgia as Senator Morse proclaimed heroically:

"Even though I get what I consider to be an inexcusable raw deal, I shall never be a party to giving a raw deal to a colleague on any basis of recrimination."

Senator William Proxmire then reverted to type by declaring war on distributions of political pork in every section but his Wisconsin. Proxmire, however, proved to be no more of a throwback than Senator Cary Hayden, venerable chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who reverted to his life work of defending appropriations.

Atavistically, Senator John Stennis announced that his Mississippi was threatened by invading hordes, and the business world's friend, Senator Roman Hruska of Nebraska, reminded the Senate that there's a shortage of railroad boxcars.

Senators Clinton Anderson of New Mexico and Stuart Symington of Missouri strove to outdo each other in tossing bouquets. Anderson said the Aeronautical and Space Sciences Committee could never function so splendidly without Symington, and Symington retorted that the committee would just be lost without Chairman Anderson.

Senator Frank J. Lausche of Ohio, often known as the One-Man Third Party, took issue with nearly everything he could think of. And Minority Leader Everett Dirksen concurred in a House amendment to strike out "$25,000" and insert "$13,533.23" in the appropriation for the Battle of Lake Erie Sesquicentennial Celebration.

But it remained for Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania to throw the Senate all the way back to abnormalcy. He resurrected the case of a former Secretary to the Senate Majority.

Senator Scott uttered these words, and not one word more:

"Mr. President, the Bobby Baker case is not yet closed. Considerable monkey business is going on, on which I shall have a report later."

Scott left the Senate in a typically unbearable state of suspense by neglecting to indicate how much later.

Harrisburg—Reporter's Notebook:

Delegate Switch, But Which Way?—When Governor Scranton, in his quest for the Republican presidential nomination, commented the other day he expected there would be some delegate switching "within the next week or so," Capitol Hill wags immediately raised the point of: "Which way—Goldwater, Scranton or Nixon?"

Mr. Scranton of course meant that any switching to be done would be in his own direction, but with the resignation this week of Henry Cabot Lodge from his ambassadorial post, the question now on the delegate-switching front seems to be: Goldwater, Scranton, Nixon—or Lodge?

Incidentally, on the Pennsylvania front, a growing number of Keystone State GOPoliticos this week evidenced the uneasy feeling that former Vive-president Nixon may yet pull the "coup de convention" when Republicans gather in San Francisco next month and conceivably emerge the ultimate victor (Republican, that is!) as a result of his standing cooly in the side wings without commitment one way or the other.

As for the Scranton candidacy itself, those close to the scene, while not downcast have the uneasy feeling that the Governor's ultimate chances grow dimmer with each passing campaign day . . . Something is missing in his campaign, most feel, but none can place a specific finger on just what it is or what can or should be done to correct it.

Accuracy Personified!—Here is the sort of "accuracy" newsmen covering Capitol Hill frequently encounter:

Under a new corporation charter recently approved by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the financial listing of the corporation (according to the Secretary of the Commonwealth's report) stipulates: "250 shares of common stock, having a par value of $100 per share."

Thus (theoretically) to find the capitalization of the new firm, you multiply the number of shares listed (250) by the value of each share ($100) to arrive (theoretically) at a figure of $25,000.

But—the report shows three Incorporators, each with 120 shares of common stock, or a total of 360 shares (not 250 as listed) which would mean a capitalization of $36,000! . . . And bureaucrats wonder why their mimeographed "news" handouts are taken with cakes of salt by newspaper editors in the field!

Pennsylvania Scholarship Sidelight—As of the present time there are a total of 639 Pennsylvanians being educated in 65 of the State's colleges and universities with funds provided by the State Scholarship Program.

Interestingly — some began their college education as long as 1956, according to the Department of Public Instruction, but remain in school under a provision in the law that permits withdrawal for as long as one year at a time for reasons such as health, emotional problems, financial need and others.

Believe It Or Not—Not all the money that comes under the control of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania comes from taxes, licenses, fees or other means whereby a payment is required.

Aside from the so-called "conscience money" which is sent to the State Treasurer from time to time, money is sometimes willed to the Commonwealth!

Usually it is willed for a specific purpose by the donor . . . Most of these trusts are set up for various state institutions and the law provides for their administration by the Boards of Trustees of the designated institution . . . As might be imagined, investment practices vary from institution to institution as individual boards do their own investing of relatively small amounts . . . Over the years these funds have tended to grow in number and multiply and understandably, they are a headache — a growing headache—to administer, particularly the numerous smaller ones.

Split Asia Policy

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — There are two sides to the grimly tough talk emanating from the very highest administration levels that the U.S. is prepared to go to war with Red China to maintain the independence of Laos and South Viet Nam.

While President Johnson is publicly proclaiming this all-out determination against "those who believe they can violate their neighbors' borders and steal their neighbors' freedom," behind-the-scenes, through diplomatic channels, Secretary Rusk is tendering Peking a series of tempting "peace" proposals.

In return for "restraining" their puppet Viet Cong and Pathet Lao, in aggression-torn South Viet Nam and Laos, Rusk is holding out to the Communist rulers of China the following five far-reaching prospects:

"Normalization of relations" with the U.S.; in effect, the establishment of some form of diplomatic relations.

Surplus food commodities (urgently needed by the Reds), trade and credits.

Admittance to the United Nations.

Access to the "rice bowl" (Mekong Valley) of South Viet Nam.

Phased withdrawal of U.S. military forces from South Viet Nam.

These profoundly significant backstage overtures are being made chiefly through Britain and France, which have embassies in Peking and direct access to its key leaders.

Both Sir Alec Douglas-Home, British Prime Minister, and President de Gaulle heartily favor these proposals, and have been activly endeavoring to promote an "understanding" between the U. S. and Red China. De Gaulle, particularly, is exerting himself in this effort.

The Two-Pronged Strategy—This on-the-record "stick" and behind-the-scenes "carrot" policy is deliberate, carefully planned and extensively organized.

While fully adopted and now being vigorously carried out by President Johnson, this dual strategy originated under the late President Kennedy, when it was formulated by the State Department Policy Planning Council, headed by Dr. Walt Rostow.

As understood by informed congressional leaders, this "stick and carrot" concept will constitute the guidelines in the coming weeks and months for vigorously pressing for a direct confrontation with Red China over Communist attempts to seize control of Laos and South Viet Nam.

These congressional authorities have been told the President already has approved certain momentous military plans designed to "carry the war to the North" — meaning North Viet Nam first, followed by Red China "if necessary."

To that end, 24 targets for "iron (non-nuclear) bombs" have been pinpointed. They are Viet Cong training camps whose exact locations in North Viet Nam are known.

If the destruction of these camps does not have the desired effect, the next step calls for a tight blockade of the North Viet Nam coast coupled with massive bombing of airports, rail and other communication facilities, and finally the new and much prized industrial plants of the Ho Chi Minh Communist regime.

Immediate objective of this "stick" strategy is to force the Reds to abide by the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements that, presumably, cleared the way for the establishment of a neutralist government in Laos and an independent government in South Viet Nam. Under these accords Communists are included in the make-up of the Laos regime.

Long-range aim of this strategy is to "create an atmosphere both in the U.S. and China" that would make possible the application of the "carrot" aspect of the dual policy.

Under the policy there is no thought or plan of any kind to in any way affect the continued Communist domination of China.

The selection of General Maxwell Taylor, former head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as new ambassador to South Viet Nam, is directly related to this extremely risky and explosive strategy. Because of his extensive combat experience, intimate knowledge of the Southeast struggle and President Johnson's thinking and objectives, Taylor was demaned the ideal choice for this crucial post.

Actually, he will operate as theater commander. That's why career diplomat U. Alexis Johnson, who had held ambassadorial positions, is being sent to Saigon as deputy ambassador under Taylor. Johnson's job will be to handle diplomatic problems, while Taylor concentrates on the more pressing and currently more vital military aspects.

Dear Abby

Rely On Your Intuition

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently we started seeing a lot of a certain couple. I have always liked them both but we have never been real close friends. For the past few months I have had the feeling that something was going on between this woman and my husband. I have never been jealous before. When I first got that feeling, I told my husband about it. He denied everything and I felt like a heel. I haven't mentioned it since, but I am no fool. All of a sudden she has been planning things for the four of us to do almost every night, and she does favors for me that are uncalled for. I don't like the looks that pass between them or the way they always manage to sit close to each other, or the way they dance together, either. I've never had to cope with this in 20 years of marriage. Should I keep my mouth shut and keep watching or what? My woman's intuition is strong.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: Your woman's intuition is probably better than Scotland Yard. Tell your husband in plain language that you are jealous, you sense danger and you have no intention of sharing him or losing him. If he fights too hard to continue the friendship, you will know your suspicions were correct, in which case you had better enlist the help of the other husband.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago my wife's mother came to live with us. Everything is fine, except when we go out for a ride. I have two-door automobile. My mother-in-law is 78, and quite large. She always climbs in the front, which seats two comfortably, but with three it's crowded. It is also dangerous, because I have only two seat belts in front, and they are being sat on—not used. I certainly am not going to put my wife in the back seat alone, so she's up front next to her mother, near the door. My mother-in-law can't very well straddle that hump on the floor, so she puts both her feet next to mine, which interferes with my driving. She leans heavily toward me, so her head is right in my rear view mirror. I don't enjoy these rides, but I go anyway because my wife says her mother needs the fresh air. Is there a solution?

SKIP MY NAME

DEAR SKIP: It is not easy to get most large 78-year-old women into or out of the back seat of a "two-door automobile." But that's where "mother" belongs. Get a car with two more doors (Detroit will love you!) and enjoy a safer ride.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ANOTHER WIFE OF A RETIRED HUSBAND": Be glad that husband is still "underfoot"—instead of six feet under. Many widows would love to have your problem.

STROUDSBURG — Who says romance is dead?

In the old days, boys might have waited in the grass near the railroad tracks and smelled the soot until a fast freight came screaming by. They waited to see the freight cars from all over the U.S. and Canada.

Those cars bore freshly painted names that spelled romance, distance, and excitement:

The Nickel Plate Road, The Wabash, The Baltimore and Ohio, The Old Faithful — the Louisville and Nashville, The Western Pacific, The Canadian National.

Boys today can lie in the grass next to a superhighway and read the letters on the trucks that come zinging by.

Granted that the sound of a fast freight is a lot more brutal than the whine of a truck passing at 60; granted that the names on the trucks might not be as explicitly colorful as the boxcars — but it's all they have.

There's an excitement in day-dreaming about the trucks and their drivers.

Monroe County has been given a road system by the state and federal governments that can equal almost any in the country. There's plenty of day-dreaming along these roads.

Picture a big Diamond-T COE (a Diamond-T is a make of truck; a COE is "cab-over-engine" for laymen) being loaded up in the Carolinas.

A young man, thickly muscled, steps up into the cab. His basic equipment lies in a tin on the dashboard: sunglasses, matches, aspirin, a picture of his wife or girl, a comb, chit slips for the toll booths.

He calls the truck by some girl's name — like the fliers in WWII named their planes — and revs the motor.

In the night, up out of the Carolinas, the rig roars northward. It collects the dust of Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania.

The driver smokes, watches the glint of the headlights approaching.

The huge rig, loaded with supplies for Scranton, or Elmira or Binghamton, speeds toward Stroudsburg in the night.

Soon after dawn breaks he heads his rig through Wind Gap and starts toward the intersection with Rt. 80. As he passes through the fields around Snydersville, a summer-tanned boy lies in the dew-wet grass and watches him come.

The driver sees the head and blue-jeans of the boy, and the arms waving. He casually reaches forward and blasts the horn.

Then he's gone.

The biggest smile in the world breaks out like a rash on the boy's face. He settles back into the grass.

Who says romance is dead?

About Town

—By Gene Brown

Too Much Play

A writer moved to New England. All he wanted to do was to write, but the neighbors thought the land ought to be used.

"What you goin' to raise" asked a farm neighbor. The writer knew that the simple truth, "I want to write," would not do. He remembered that his wife had said something about the city being no place to bring up children.

"I'm going to raise children," he answered.

The farmer spat. He was unimpressed. "Around here," he said, "we look on that as a sideline."

We recently came across some great news for people who dread yard chores. If you've been worrying about feeding your lawn plenty of fertilizer, sprinkling it every evening and mowing it several times a week, forget it! A recent study conducted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicates that too much attention not only encourages disease but can give the grass the equivalent of a nervous breakdown.

Apparently your lawn is the one thing around the house that will improve with a little studied neglect.

Speaking Of Your Health:

About Those Pesky Insects

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Q: Are ordinary insects which might be found around the house dangerous and do they carry disease?

A: Fortunately only a few of the thousands of insect species are harmful to humans.

The bite or sting of some insects can be poisonous, but most are only irritating.

The real danger of household insects is that they may carry germs which could produce disease.

Q: Can the common house fly carry disease?

A: Yes. Since flies breed in moist waste products like garbage and animal excretions, the feet of flies readily collect germs and filth.

Q: Are mosquitoes a potential source of disease?

A: Some species of mosquitoes carry specific illnesses. The Anopheles mosquito is a carrier of malaria. The Aedes aegypti carries yellow fever and dengue. These mosquitoes usually pick up the disease by biting into and feeding on the blood of a sick person or animal. They spread the disease in the same way.

However, disease-carying mosquitoes are usually found only in very warm, moist tropical climates. Elsewhere, most mosquitoes are merely nuisances that cause discomfort and annoyance.

Q: Are fleas a threat to health?

A: Fleas are relatively harmless insects, which usually live on animals. Although they seldom carry disease, their bite can be annoying to animals and humans.

Q: What are ticks and do they carry disease?

A: Ticks are closely related to insects. They are found mostly in woods and thick underbrush. They pierce the skin and attach themselves firmly by their barbed stickers. They are usually found on animals, but will also attach themselves to humans.

Some ticks carry diseases like Rocky Mountain spotted fever and tularemia.

Q: How does one avoid the health hazards of ticks, mosquitoes and other insects?

A: Cleanliness is the primary key to controlling their growth and preventing disease. Some helpful suggestions:

1) Store garbage and other refuse in tight containers, since this is a favorite breeding place.

2) Keep household pets free of insects (particularly fleas and ticks), and animal sleeping places clean.

3) Do not allow water to collect and stand for any length of time in barrels, garden pools, or other receptacles).

4) Keep weeds and brush from growing close to the house.

5) Do not let food stand uncovered, expecially during hot weather.

6) Close or screen windows and doors.

Stories Behind Words

Humble Pie

In Elizabethan England meals in the castle or manor house were eaten at a long table. One end of the table was raised. The lord of the manor and his honored guests sat at the raised, or upper, end. The servants and unimportant guests sat at the lower end.

The best food, including the choice parts of deer and other animals, was served at the upper end of the table. The "umbles"—the heart, liver and entrails—were made into pies and served at the lower end. Therefore, anyone who ate umble pie was a person of low status.

A pun on the word "umble" resulted in the expression "to eat humble pie"—meaning to be reduced to an inferior rank, or to suffer humiliation.

Halterman Barn Destroyed At Wooddale

WOODDALE — A century-old barn on the property of Mrs. Charlotte Halterman of East Stroudsburg, RD 3, was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning at Wooddale near Analomink.

According to Marshalls Creek fire chief Ralph Miller, the fire was discovered shortly after 2 a.m. by Mrs. Dorothy Davis, Mrs. Halterman's daughter.

She turned in the alarm to Marshalls Creek and to the Stroud Twp. Volunteer Fire Dept.

The Marshalls Creek company sped four pieces of equipment and 27 men to the property, located about 2,000 yards from the Wooddale Church, Miller said.

"When we got there, the barn was already engulfed in flames," Miller said. "Shortly after that the Stroud Twp. men came with three pieces of equipment.

"We saw we couldn't do anything to save the barn, so our company protected some sheds that were there and another barn. Stroud protected the house."

Total Loss

The barn was 100 years old and was a total loss, according to the fire chief. "There was a heavy wind at that time — we don't know whether the barn caught fire from spontaneous combustion, or by other means," he said.

"As soon as the barn fell in, we sent the Stroud company home. I returned from the scene at 6 a.m.," said the chief.

Mrs. Halterman said that she had no idea how the blaze began.

"We lost some machinery in there — a mowing machine, a windmill, a clover huller; fortunately we had no cattle in the barn. If there would have been cattle, I don't think we could have gotten them out in time," she said.

She said that the Halterman's bought the property from Edmund V. LaBar, and it was probably the LaBar's that erected the barn during the civil war.

Mrs. Halterman had no idea of the value of the barn, other than to say "it was a good barn."

One And A Half Story Has Warmth Of Old Fashioned House

Second Floor Dormer Gives Needed Room For Growth

By JULES LOH

Admittedly there's an exciting appeal in some of today's dramatic experiments with modernistic home design.

But as an architectural setting for the warmth and stability usually associated with family life, nobody has yet come up with a more appropriate style than the old fashioned farm house.

Today's House of the Week, H-36 in the series, has all the charming details typical of such a home — narrow board siding with corner boards, boulder stone facing, double hung windows, wood shutters, a shady breezeway, and an attached garage with barn type doors and a cupola on top.

Moreover, the house is a one and one-half-story structure, offering built-in expansion room under the sharply pitched roof.

What that means in this case is that the house, with expansion complete, contains five bedrooms and three full baths, plus living room, dining room and family kitchen — all within a basic area of only 1,431 square feet.

Including the breezeway and garage, which actually could be built later if the initial construction budget is too tight, the dimensions are 78 feet 11 inches wide by 27 feet four inches deep. Breezeway and garage aren't included in the basic living area of 1,431 square feet.

The expansion room upstairs is made possible by a large dormer across the rear. This portion of the house — a total area of 819 square feet — also could be completed later. It's the most economical type of expansion in a home, since the structural work already is done; a handy husband could do much of the finish work himself.

When completed, the upstairs offers two large bedrooms, a full bath, and a tremendous amount of closet and storage space.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

Some of the traditional ingredients of the old farmstead add flavor to the interior of this house, such as the log burning fireplace, slate foyer and large family kitchen. In each case they are also the sort of features necessary for modern family living.

The fireplace catches the eye immediately on entering the foyer, and together with the large bay window is a focal point for furniture arrangement in the 22 foot by 13 foot four inch living room.

The living room flows through an arch to the dining room where sliding glass doors lead to the covered breezeway. On occasions of large scale entertaining, especially in pleasant weather, the three rooms combine into a well arranged ensemble.

Clearly a key feature of the house is the large (178 square foot) kitchen and family dinette, a nicely arranged housekeeping hub with plenty of room for all the family to congregate.

The kitchen work area is the efficient U-shape which not only saves steps but keeps traffic from underfoot. Both the kitchen and dinette have large windows which provide excellent views of the backyard play area.

All three downstairs bedrooms are nicely proportioned and contain at least three closets; the master bedroom contains four.

The hallway in the bedroom wing is free from any congestion caused by opening doors. At the end of the hall where the bedroom doors are located, the hallway expands. The main bath also is off the hallway through a vestibule where the linen closet is located. Note how the main bath and master bath are back to back for plumbing economy.

Upstairs, the hall has a balcony rail around the stair, also typical of the interior design of the old farmhouse days. At each end of the expansion attic are two large rooms for seasonal storage, and there is a full wall in the center for linen storage.

The house has a full basement, with the stair conveniently located at the rear service entry and near the kitchen.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: We have some land and are getting ready to build a house on it. Our plan is to have masonry walls, but in looking into the matter, we are getting a little confused about the different types of such walls. The three we have heard the most about are soid masonry walls, cavity walls and veneer walls. Can you tell us something about the differences between them?

ANSWER: A solid masonry wall is what the name implies —a wall made of solid masonry, which can be either brick or concrete block. However, there are variations of the solid wall, either one-unit thick or two or more units thick. In most cases, when a solid wall is two or more units thick, the outside masonry is of a more expensive grade. A cavity wall is made up of two masonry walls, with an air space of two or three inches. The masonry is held together with metal. Adherents of the cavity wall say the sir space prevents moisture penetration and acts as added insulation. A veneer wall is composed of masonry units on the outside of a frame wall. The masonry is merely the finished surface rather than the wall itself. Before deciding on which of the walls to use—and discussing their advantages and disadvantages with your architect or builder—be sure you inquire about the building code in your area. Some sections require solid masonry walls two or more units thick.

Attic Space Is Ideal For Extra Room, Apartment

Most older houses have attics that serve as a general catch-all for old books, broken furniture and scrap books. But quite often, most of the attic space is wasted.

Any family with a population growth problem would do well to consider how an attic might be utilized as an extra room or small apartment. It may be that only minor remodeling is necessary to transform this wasted space into a truly liveable area.

The area should include all possible conveniences, so the person living there will not have to come downstairs for everything he or she wants. A primary consideration is plumbing.

If possible, plan location of plumbing fixtures directly above a bathroom on the floor below to utilize existing supply and waste lines.

When you talk with a plumbing contractor, who can arrange for the entire remodeling job himself, be sure to ask about the many compact models of lavatories and water closets. Also, a square-type tub-receptor is ideal for a tub and shower combination in close quarters, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

It's highly unlikely you'll ever see a home workshop that bears any resembance to those glistening layouts that occasionally make an appearance in some publications. The housekeeping chores involved in keeping such workshops spotless would prevent them from ever being used for making or fixing things.

Conceding, then, that a certain amount of disorder is inevitable, it still is possible to keep a home workshop reasonably neat, clean and safe with a minimum amount of trouble. The secret is in making it easy to put things in their proper places, whether it be tools, nails, lumber, sawdust or oily rags.

If you have a holder for screwdrivers, you're likely to return a screwdriver to it rather than placing it on a bench. If you have individual containers for nails and screws of different sizes, you won't find the fasteners all over the place. If a lumber-storage rack is convenient, pieces of wood will wind up there rather than on the floor. And metal containers for sawdust and rags not only will encourage neatness, they'll help to prevent fire.

In planning a workshop, you can make it easier for yourself by remembering certain fundamentals. Here are some of them:

If the workshop is large enough to keep your table saw in the center of the room, fine. If it isn't, better put retractable rubber casters on the legs of the saw stand so that it can be moved to the center when you're working with large pieces of wood.

It will be difficult to keep your tools from rusting if the workshop is in a damp basement. A dehumidifier of some sort may be a necessity.

Sweeping a basement floor will be a lot easier if you cover the concrete with resilient tiles or some other type of smooth flooring.

Entirley aside from the regular lighting, consider the use of a lamp for a specific area where you may be doing fine work.

40 Scouts On 3-Week Trip To New Mexico Camp Ranch

STROUDSBURG — Forty Delaware Valley Area Council Boy Scouts and five adult leaders leave tomorrow morning for a three-week trip to the Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimmaron, N. Mex.

Leaving the Stroud Shopping Center at 5 a.m. by bus, the scouts and their leaders will take seven days to reach the 137,000-acre ranch owned by National Council, Boy Scouts of America. The group will spend each night at an armed forces base or youth center.

Included will be a three-day sightseeing tour in Colorado. The boys will then arrive at the ranch, and set off on trails through the huge natural area. They will carry their food and shelter on their backs, splitting into four groups with an adult leader to each.

Every day will have a visit to an area devised to teach outdoor skills, such as roping, and riding, or a natural feature, such as a mine.

The return trip will begin July 15, and the youngsters will arrive in Stroudsburg the evening of July 18, William T. Vincent, of Stroudsburg, tour director, said. He said the tour would cost $155 for each boy.

Adult leaders, in addition to Vincent, are Ralph Hellig, Asher W. Resh, and Herbert Ayers, all of Stroudsburg; and Roger Legg of Taylor, Pa.

East Stroudsburg boys attending will be Robert Bush, Brian Christian, Clinton Frantz, Steven B. Hovey, Lynn C. Hunsicker, Larry Sebring, and Eric Sills.

Other Pocono youngsters on the trip will include Glenn Albert of Bangor, George Kutudis of Mt. Pocono, Robert A. Schneider of Waverly, Gary D. Stiff of Cresco, John P. Tobey of Newfoundland, and Richard Wahl of Paupack.

Union Pickets Frank Work At American House Addition

STROUDSBURG — Members of Local 1174, International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers of America, are picketing work on construction of an addition to the American House Hotel because the contractor employs non-union help.

James Robert of East Stroudsburg, local assistant business agent, said the members are picketing the Charles Frank Construction Co. because "We do not work for any contractor who is not union."

He also charged that Frank pays his laborers sub-standard wages.

None of the picketing union members are working on the job.

Robert said Frank was notified two months ago of the impending pickets and he refused to hold a meeting. Robert declared that "no one seems to care." He refused to explain union demands until management agrees to a conference.

It was reported that union workers for certain sub-contractors have refused to cross the picket line.

Frank was unavailable for comment last night.

Edward Katz, president of Monatt, Inc., owner of the hotel, said the union pickets every job Frank does, "including the state liquor store."

The Liquor Control Board is scheduled to open a store in the hotel addition sometime during August.

Katz emphasized the American House is not being struck.

N'foundland Bible School Overflows

NEWFOUNDLAND — An "overflow" attendance of youngsters at the annual Daily Vacation Bible School at South Sterling and Hemlock Grove Methodist Churches has been reported by the Rev. Denton Covert, minister of the charge.

Shirley Becker is in charge in South Sterling, and is also teaching the beginners' group, with Sharon Haag as her assistant. Edythe Gilpin and Evelyn Smith are teachers in the primary group, with Ben Nevin assisting. Connie Keiter teaches the juniors.

The final program will be held at 7 p. m. on Friday.

At Hemlock Grove, Mrs. Robert Krieger is in charge. Teachers in the nursery group are Louise Northup, Audrey Williams and Shirley Obert, with Ruth Schoenagel as a helper. The kindergarten group is taught by Janet McLain and Thelma White, with Barbara Cicak as helper.

Nancy Crocker, Mary Reiss and Joan Evans teach the primary group, and the juniors are taught by Carolyn Shaffer and Florence Krieger.

'No Apology' For Ivy Football

STROUDSBURG — "No apologies have to be made for Ivy League football," said Bob Blackman, head coach at Dartmouth College for nine years.

"It is just as hard hitting, with more innovations and less conservative style than that of many Southern or Midwest teams," the quick-kick specialist told the Stroudsburg Rotary Club yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

While Ivy League teams could give Big 10 or Southern Conference teams rated best in the nation a good fight, Blackman said several factors would make it difficult to compete in the bigger leagues.

Ivy League football rules forbid spring football training, something Blackman regrets. Studies come first and there are no football schoarships at Ivy League Schools, Blackman asserted.

"It is one of the few leagues where they still pay the coaches more than they pay the football players," Blackman quipped.

Blackman, who is in Stroudsburg for the coaches clinic run by M. Stiles Baldwin, said more than 60 per cent of the student body at Dartmouth participates in the sports program, while less than one per cent participate in sports at the big state colleges where "playing football has become a job."

Forty per cent of Dartmouth students are on academic scholarships, but none are on football scholarships, Blackman said. But he rates his best players with the best in the nation.

Alex Bensinger, a Dartmouth graduate and football fan, introduced Blackman.

Just Between Us — —

When two nature lovers draw each other as partner's in a golf tournament, it makes for a very companionable sound day but not necessarily for good golf. Elaine Martin, studying a chip shot on number 7 at Glen Brook, spied a deer emerging from the woods on number 6.

Following the doe came two small fawns and watching them amble across both fairways took considerable time. "Well," said Elaine, returning her attention to the golf ball, "that's one way of proving to myself that I don't keep my head down." However, it didn't handicap her too much since she went on to win the class C low net.

Young things of any species are a delight to watch, especially when the watching entails no responsibility. And in nostalgic moments, parents are inclined to remember only the delight, and not at what an unearthly hour two-year-olds get up in the morning.

Blinking out to the river in the slanting early morning sunlight, it was a surprise to find my youngest niece already happily shoveling water from the river's edge, while her sleepy father made like a statue of The Thinker beside her.

Fostering the notion that I am everybody's favorite aunt, including family dogs', is good for the ego, but it does pose certain complications when two dogs who have been accustomed to my undivided attention come rushing out to meet me at once.

By the time the hullabalioo of everybody trying to separate them has died down, I feel more like an old bone and just about as welcome.

Let's talk Fashion

The only sensible reason we can think of for having a sale of clothes that are just perfect for summer with summer just really getting started is that we love our customers and hate to have them sweltering the summer away waiting for the bargains.

And these are bargains, believe us. We've just put them on the rack at a reduction of from 30 to 40 percent. There's everything from linens to silks and silk acetates to Kimberly knits, from sleeveless dresses to three piece costumes, in blacks and plaids and ice cream colors.

They would sell—and be worth it—at their full price, but we did order them early for the benefit of the late Southern vacationers, so we're reducing them early just for your benefit. There are David Crystals, and Carlyle and other famous makes in addition to the Kimberly Knits—There's even one suit.

And if you don't come in and see if we've something in your size and favorite style, then you'll just have to go around regretting the lost opportunity. We've done our share to make you comfortable, handsome, and rich with all the money you'll save.

Cy Barrett Says

Blood Type Chains

DEAR CY:
A businessman friend, who was in France for two weeks, tells me a new key chain is selling like hotcakes over there. It has the owner's blood type molded in the half-dollar sized disc attached to the key ring. Our new partnership is about to go into business selling the blood-type key chains.

VICTOR

DEAR VICTOR:
There may be a few bloody dollars in selling blood type signal devices, but I don't feel they are in the public interest. As any doctor will explain, more information than blood type is needed in an emergency situation. Due to this, the American Medical Association has created an "Emergency Medical Identification Symbol." It indicates the presence of information important to the life and health of the wearer.

Firms making durable medical signal devices can get authorization for use of the design from AMA. Enclosed is a free copy of the American Medical Association's folder on emergency medical identification. (Any other reader desiring a free copy has only to write me, enclosing a stamped, return envelope c-o this newspaper.) NOTE: Plasma, not blood, is usually administered in emergencies. One army medical officer tells me error in blood type signal devices is frequent. During World War II, he conducted a survey and found wrong blood types recorded on 10 per cent of the G. I. dog tags.

Blood type designations are for the purpose of spotting those who might give blood to others. Donors and recipients are retyped and matched before any blood is transferred. We have four basic blood types, but forget them. Tie in with the AMA's Emergency Medical Identification symbol.

CY

DEAR CY:
Your article on night club singer Eric Stevens prompts me to speak my mind. My husband is now facing the trials Stevens did, and auditions are truly nerve wracking. When a night club job is finally landed, the act wants his agent to get a good report. But . . . the singer is at the mercy of the pianists, most of whom have to work day jobs nowadays, letting their music go to pot. The best pianists work private parties, so the night club players are leftovers. The owners won't pay for rehearsals, so the acts go on with only a talkover under their belts.

My husband doesn't mind if a man makes an occasional musical goof, but he has to write words under the notes to make things easy. Twice, he has been almost ruined by pianists who can't read music or English.

SINGER'S WIFE

DEAR SINGER'S WIFE:
Don't shoot the piano player! Your husband's singing makes him sad. He can't read through the tears.

CY

DEAR CY:
My seatmate on a bus was all steamed up about her withholding tax. She complained that, with the 1964 tax cut, more would have to be withheld from her salary to meet payments. Should I talk to the company about adjusting my withholding, Cy?

VERA G.

DEAR VERA:
Possibly. Under the new federal tax law, your total reduction in taxes will be spread over 2 years, 2/3 in 1964 and 1/3 in 1965. Parallel withholding tax reductions were to take place but things didn't get politicked that way.

The government decreed a flat cut of withholding requirements to 14 per cent as of Jan. 1. This means many well meaning taxpayers, earning $300 or more per month, will not get refund checks. Instead, they will reach into worn pockets and wallets to meet additional payments on 1964 taxes. That is, unless they reduce the number of dependents declared or increase the amount withheld. What else do you hear on the bus?

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Friday, June 26, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Ask questions, but listen to the answers and learn to interpret all relevant facts. High calibre motives and misleading ones will both exist.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Venus generously influences all endeavors now, but avoid impulsiveness. You can achieve much in your usual competent manner. Capitalize on your artistry.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — You may face some situations that you had not anticipated, but you can handle the day smartly if you use those many talents of yours, and also remain serene, confident.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Good aspects should cheer those of you who are working creditably toward rightly predetermined goals. Consistency and patience a potent combination.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Don't let matters slide now or their beneficial conclusions will be greatly delayed. Others are watching their interests avidly; so should you in detailed, conscientious fashion.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) WAIT before you conclude that your interests are not progressing; look over the picture again. There is a proper delaying action in some areas. Don't give up. Benefits in the offing.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may have difficulty persuading, gaining your point; you may not see all the reasons for the opposition but do not become discouraged, back down or "let it slip." Study from all angles.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Good planetary influences. Take advantage of the situation. Don't expect the unreasonable in returns, however. Avoid extremes; be happy. There's no need to rush. Things can work out surprisingly well.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Tighten reins a bit to observe with more ease and surety where you are headed. No monument of words should dissuade you from principles, but do avoid stubbornness.

December 23 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Your planetary influence auspicious. But be careful not to run out of bounds or overdo. On the other hand, delaying tactics could be unwise, too. Judge each matter on its own merits.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Mixed influences. Average effort will not reap as much as the better try. A seeking, searching mind digs out the essentials — and new opportunities.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Similar to Libra today. Restudy your judgments, re-appraise intended moves. But finally DO step forward.

YOU BORN TODAY are intense, loving, conservative, and more apprehensive than you yourself believe. Be vigilant but NOT suspicious; let bygones lay. You incline to become discouraged too easily. When a setback comes, just put more determination into the next try. Don't let endeavor become spotty or depend upon others. You would make an excellent writer, designer, administrator or archaeologist; could also succeed in any occupation dealing with the sea. Birthdate of: William (Lord Kelvin) Thomson, Scottish scientist; Peter Lorre, actor.

Dartmouth, Oberlin Begin Summer School For Negroes

By Richard Spong

WASHINGTON — Programs aimed at making a college education available to disadvantaged secondary school students are being conducted at Oberlin and Dartmouth colleges this summer.

The Oberlin program is under way; the Dartmouth experiment begins with the opening of the summer session Sunday, June 28.

"If leadership is to be creative as well as good, it must on occasion generate the change it leads."

The words are from the convocation address last September of John Sloan Dickey, president of Dartmouth College.

They proved prophetic, for this summer Dartmouth is generating a small change that should prove in the long view as good as it is creative.

The change is Project A.B.C. (for "A Better Chance"), in which Dartmouth is cooperating with a group of independent secondary schools that participate in the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students Independent Schools Program.

About 50 Negroes and other educationally disadvantaged secondary school students will be brought to the Hanover campus for eight weeks of intensive study in July and August.

The aim is to prepare them for admission to the college of their choice on completion of their secondary school study.

By early April, 30 students from 13 states, spread from Maine to California, had been selected for the Dartmouth program. About 20 more will have been selected by the end of June.

In the autumn, if these students do well during the summer, they will enter one of the independent preparatory schools to which they have already received contingent admission and scholarships.

During their eight-week residence at Dartmouth they will receive intensive instruction, mostly in English and mathematics, to enable them to qualify eventually for college.

McKinley Survives Shaky Tennis Day

By JOHN FARROW

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Chuck McKinley of San Antonio survived another shaky day on the tennis courts of Wimbledon Thursday, while other Americans were going down in large numbers and a Russian and a Hungarian were walking out.

McKinley, who romped to the title last year without the loss of a set, had to pull out all the stops for a third-round victory over Torben Ulrich of Denmark, 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

It was the second close call in a row for McKinley, who is second-seeded this year, and almost the only American player of note left in the men's singles.

Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., third-seeded in the women's singles, moved into the third round with an easy 6-2, 6-2 victory over Donna Floyd Fales of New York.

That was only one of several American match-ups as the tournament finished its fourth day.

Defeats Partner

Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., defeated his doubles partner, Bill Bond of San Diego, 6-4, 6-4, 6-0.

Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn trimmed Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., in a marathon five-setter carried over from Wednesday, 14-16, 11-13, 6-4, 6-2, 10-8.

That left McKinley and Ashe as the only Americans in the last 16 in men's singles. Holmberg must meet Rafael Osuna, Mexican holder of the U.S. singles title, in a third-round match, and is an underdog.

Six American women — Miss Moffitt; Tory Ann Fretz of Harrisburg, Pa.; Judy Alvarez of Tampa, Fla.; Nancy Richey of Dallas; Mary Anne Eisel of St. Louis, and Carole Caldwell, Santa Monica, Calif., are through to the third round of the women's singles.

Refuse to Play

While there was action on the courts, a Russian and a Hungarian refused to play.

Alex Metreveli, 19, the last Russian left in the men's singles, withdrew rather than play South Africa's Abe Segal as a protest against South African racial policies.

A short time later, Istvan Gulyas of Hungary, a veteran of half a dozen Wimbledons and Segal's doubles partner, dropped out for the same reason, just before the pair was to play a first-round match.

Orioles Sweep Yankees, 3-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson clouted home runs in support of Steve Barber's three-hit pitching Thursday night as the Baltimore Orioles whipped the New York Yankees 3-1 and completed a three-game series sweep.

The victory moved Baltimore 2½ games ahead of the Yanks in the American League pennant race.

The only run off Barber, who evened his record at 4-4, was a leadoff homer by Joe Pepitone in the third inning. The left-*hander had to pitch out of trou*ble in the fourth and fifth innings, however, when he encountered control trouble.

Powell hit his 16th homer of the year, and the third of the *series, in the first inning off los*er Jim Bouton. Robinson socked his eighth of the year to open the second. The other Oriole run scored in the fifth on Jerry Adair's double and a single by Bob Johnson.

McBean Termed Another Cassius

By MURRAY CHASS

NEW YORK (AP)— His teammates call him Cassius.

But Al McBean prefers Mac.

He also prefers the bullpen, and has become Pittsburgh Pirates' No. 1 relief pitcher, successor to the illustrious Roy Face.

And, by his own admission, the 26-year-old right - hander is "as good as any relief pitcher in the National or American Leagues."

Name Label

Which is why his teammates have labeled him Cassius.

McBean, however, is very sincere and very frank about what he thinks he can do once he comes into a game in the late innings.

"I can shut out any club for three innings," the Virgin Islander said Thursday.

"The other night I came in with runners on second and third. I said to myself, 'Mac, I don't care how you feel tonight. You gotta get these guys out.' If Dan (Manager Danny Murtaugh) says he need a double play, I say I'll get it.

I don't care about anything except get those guys out, Mac.

"Sure, on some given night I can get knocked, but I'l come back again and get the club that gave it to me.

"I Can Do It"

"I don't know if I'm overconfident, but I just feel I can do it. I've built up my confidence to where the hitter doesn't make any difference to me. I'm gonna get him out."

McBean's record for last season and this gives him reason for his belief in himself. He won 13 games and lost 3 in 55 appearances last year, compiling a 2.58 earned run average.

His ERA in 19 games this season is a fantastic 0.75.

Before he became a bullpen specialist, the husky McBean was given a chance as a starting pitcher. He failed miserably.

"I can't start," he bluntly admitted. "I'm nervous before each game I'm scheduled to start. I lose more of my energy lying awake thinking of the next day. I've always enjoyed relieving more than starting. I can do a better job in relief. Two or three innings a night aren't going to hurt me."

THE LAST SUPPER

They told jokes and they laughed and they ate and drank but somehow the laughter seemed empty. It seemed more like a wake. The scene was the Penn-Stroud Hotel and the occasion marked the annual banquet of the Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches Clinic. The wake was for Martin Stiles (Marty) Baldwin, stepping down as clinic director after 20 consecutive years and the move may well mark the end of one of t he most successful football clinics in the country.

The success has been fading in recent years, however, and this is probably the biggest reason that Marty is quitting. He had previously cited failing health as the reason for bowing out, but actually he is sick like the attendance for this affair. There was a huge total of 55 registrants for this affair—not nearly enough to cover the expense for such a program.

Ted Dailey, No. 1 assistant to Ben Schwartzwalder at Syracuse University, told this reporter during the buffet supper at Glen Brook Country Club Tuesday that "this is the best clinic I've attended."

Dailey should know, too. He has not missed any of the 21 clinics.

"I've gone to a lot of clinics," said Dailey, "and I still say this is the best one. It's informal and when you have questions, you get answers. This is what makes it so great."

He added, "Marty Baldwin has done a fine job and I hate to see him leave it because none of the clinics can compare with this one. This is No. 1."

You can learn a lot of things at this clinic by talking to such guys as Dailey in addition to hearing the various and newest innovations of football strategy.

For instance, your reporter popped this question to Dailey during the Penn-Stroud dinner Wednesday: Does Bill Schoonover stand a good chance of making the grade with the Cleveland Browns?

Dailey's answer: "Schoonover is the only guy we got who can make the pros. . . . He can play the corner man on defense. He's a deadly tackler with the meanness that's necessary. They're also planning to use him as a running back which he can do, too. We've got five boys who were signed up by the pros and Bill's the only one I think who can make it."

These were words of encouragement to Pocono grid fans from an expert who has been associated with Syracuse football and Schwartzwalder for 15 years.

Unfortunately, there were few other words of encouragement for this clinic.

It was—as Marty Baldwin said—his "swan song." He also called it his "last supper."

And the coaches who served on this year's staff extended their condolences.

A few held the thought that because Marty was leaving that this would be the end of the clinic. This could well be true. But it isn't necessarily so.

As Marty said, "I hope the college (ESSC) will take over this clinic and maybe something can be worked out."

You can bet one thing: If "something can be worked out," Marty will be there to help—not as a director, but as an interested sportsman.

A trio of Mountaineers of Stroud Union's High School championship baseball team are doing A-OK in American Legion ball this summer.

Last Sunday, when Northampton defeated Fountain Hill, 18-3, Freddy Frantz pitched the distance, faming nine batters over the seven-inning stint while smacking three hits in four trips which included a pair of singles and a double good for two RBIs.

Glenn Bisbing continued to wield a mean bat with a 3-for-5 performance—two homers, a single and four RBIs. Dave Pierson crashed two hits—a double and triple—scoring three runs and three RBIs.

Pierson was the star in a mid-week 7-0 triumph over Southern Lehigh, pitching the seven-inning route, striking out 12 and going 2-for-4 at the plate as Northampton won its eighth game in nine contests.

Betty Somers Glen Brook Victor Again

STROUDSBURG —Betty Somers continued her winning ways for the second straight week winning the Glen Brook Women's Golf Assn. 18 hole tournament, this time against par, coming in with a net of four under.

Winner of Class A was Henrietta Baldwin; Class B, Oriole Nitrauer, and Class C, Elaine Martin. Low gross for the 18 holes was Elsie Cresser.

Ann Strickland, with one under par, won the 9-hole tournament, with Lillian Nietsch taking the prize for low net.

Shirley Christman won the 18-hole putting prize with 28 putts and Betty McCambridge the nine-hole tournament with 16.

Announcement was made of a Twilight Scotch Foursome to be played on July 12 with tee-off time 3 p.m. to be followed by a buffet supper. Mrs. Boyd Chapman and Mrs. Royal Brown head the committee in charge.

An invitation was read from the Cliff Park Golf Club, Milford, to take part in its invitational tournament on July 15.

Phils, Eagles Balk At Stadium Plan

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League and the Philadelphia Phillies of the National League balked Thursday at terms for playing at the proposed 60,000-seat stadium the city wants private interests to build.

Jerry Wolman, owner of the Eagles, said his team will not play at the stadium under the arrangements presented him thus far.

George Harrison, treasurer of the baseball Phillies, said the terms offered the baseball team were "very stiff" and must be negotiated further.

Officials of both teams met with the Democratic majority caucus of City Council to express their view.

Council President Paul D'ortona said after the meetings that he also believed the lease terms were too high.

D'Ortona added that Pennsylvaia Railroad officials told him they could not build the stadium unless both the Eagles and the Phillies are signed in advance to play there.

Sabath Anthony Mele, manager of the Minnesota Twins, was called Sam because of the first letters of his three names.

Bankers Win LL Tilts

STROUDSBURGS — First National Bank yesterday scored five runs in the opening inning of a playoff of a tie game against Wyckoff-Sears to win the first-half title of the Stroudsburg Little League by a 10-5 score.

Little League Roundup

POCONO LAKE — The Pocono Lions yesterday defeated Marvin's TV, 13-12, in a seven-inning contest.

The winning run scored on a bunt single by Billy Quinn which tallied Ken Wearich from third.

The win was the ninth in 12 outings for the Lions in the Pocono Mountain Little League contest.

Rich Dailey homered for the winners while Rich Murray swatted a circuit smash for Marvin's.

Jerry Davis was the winning pitcher.

TOBYHANNA — The Tobyhanna Lions yesterday won their 11th game in 12 starts by trimming Mt. Pocono Rotary, 13-7, in a Pocono Mountain Little League clash.

Richard Nicholas smashed a pair of home runs for the winners, driving in four runs. He also was credited with the win, pitching the first three innings.

Bruised Wrist

CINCINNATI (AP) — X rays taken Thursday showed Cincinnati Reds' outfielder Frank Robinson has only a bruise on his left wrist.

Robinson sat out the last three games and there had been some fear there might be a break in the wrist.

Robinson said he was hit on the wrist with a pitched ball and strained it on a swing during a series with the Los Angeles Dodgers last weekend.

Roger Craig, who singled across the first Cardinal run after Julian Javier doubled in the third, got the pitching victory. Craig went out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth after allowing six hits and Glen Hobbie pitched the ninth.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Lynch crashed a pair of home runs and Bill Mazeroski connected once in the Pittsburgh attack as the Pirates whipped the New York Mets Thursday for the 11th time in 13 meetings, 8-1.

Supported by a 13-hit offense lefty Joe Gibbon coasted to his fifth victory to go with his two defeats. Gibbon, who had three of the hits, permitted only four singles, two by Ron Hunt.

The Mets' only run was unearned and Gibbon had nobody to blame but himself. After Hunt singled in the sixth inning, Gibbon threw wild in a pickoff attempt and Hunt took second, from where he scored on Joe Christopher's single.

Alvis hit his third homer in two games, connecting with one on in the fourth inning for a lead the Indians never surrendered. Brown also belted a two-run homer and Howser went 3-for-5.

Jack Kralick and Don McMahon collaborated on a three-hitter for Cleveland. Kralick, who rapped out three hits, was lifted in the seventh for a pinch hitter and McMahon finished.

Geiberger Leads At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Smiling Al Geiberger, who said he hadn't been playing too well, birdied six of the last 10 holes Thursday for a 34-30—64 to take the first-round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

Despite his heroics—his card showed 10 threes—he was able to take only a one stroke edge, as the field of 149 professionals and 10 amateurs practically wrecked the 6,821-yard, par 71 Highland Park municipal course.

Second Spot

The 26-year-old Californian knocked Tony Lema out of the lead after the Champagne Kid had scored a 65, and later, big George Bayer came into deadlock for the runner-up spot.

More than 50 of the classy field were under par, setting the stage for a down-to-the-wire fight for the $20,000 top prize.

Billy Casper, George Archer, Ray Floyd and Harold Kneece were tied at 66. Defending champion Arnold Palmer was in an eight-way tie at 67, and Jack Nicklaus was in a 10-way tie at 68.

The 69 bracket included such standouts as Mike Souchak, Julius Boros, Gary Player, Bob Charles, Doug Sanders and Ohio's amateur champion, Bob Bourne.

National Open champion Ken Venturi soared to a 75.

If you're a Packard fan, this is the car you've been waiting for. Big. Roomy. Quality all the way. And you'll never believe a '56 model could be so well-kept until you see for yourself. This car was owned by a retired, local businessman and the actual, guaranteed mileage is only 34,500. It's clean as a pin inside and out. In fact, the floor carpeting and upholstery looks brand new. The whitewall tires are excellent and the spare tire looks like it was never used (even the trunk is immaculate!) It's equipped with automatic transmission, electric antenna, radio and heater and styled in gunmetal grey with a white color sweep. A rare find . . . and an excellent buy!

is the new 1964 SAAB in the same boat as Volkswagen?

As for styling or body changes, yes. They're few and far between. And both cars make a fetish out of sound engineering. But SAAB mechanical changes tend to be dramatic, year to year. Take the new 1964 SAAB. It has a completely new brake system: dual master cylinders with independent hydraulic lines that connect the front wheel on one side with the rear wheel on the other side. If one fails, you still get effective braking on both sides. So do your wife and kids. We made a dashboard change, too. Not one instrument, but the whole works.

Otherwise, SAAB sticks to the solid things it's always had: front-wheel drive, fantastic 2-stroke engine, and room — comfortable room. So it's not really in the same boat as Volkswagen. Nor is the price. SAAB costs about $300 more. Value-wise, it's worth it.

Only $1895 (right off the boat).
